Laurence (Larry) Iffla is a partner in Iffla Wade, a Perth based legal firm that practices in a wide range of corporate property and commercial areas.

Larry is a former partner of Mallesons Stephen Jaques (now King & Wood Mallesons) in Perth with over 30 years' experience in commercial property and development matters, stamp & transfer duty and other property related tax advice, as well as personal estate planning for select clients. He also works in corporate and commercial law, particularly involving the structuring of business and property acquisitions. Larry was identified as a preeminent lawyer in Doyle's Guide to the Legal Profession – Leading Property & Real Estate Lawyers WA in 2011.

Larry has advised a number of leading Australian property owners and overseas investors. His experience includes many major property acquisitions and office and shopping centre developments and leaseings, with particular expertise in Foreign Investment Review Board work and property trust matters. He also works in the international hotel, resort development and retirement village areas and has extensive experience with Strata Titles legislation. His work has included a number of coastal developments and marinas. He acts on business related estate planning matters, undertaking Wills, trust deed and corporate document preparation in coordination with allied tax and wealth management professionals.

Larry is involved in joint venture negotiations, company acquisitions and reorganisations as well as general contract preparation and commercial advising. He acted on the sale of the BHP Kwinana site and business to Fremantle Port Authority and LandCorp. He also worked on the Burswood (now Crown) Casino and InterContinental Hotels Group hotels joint venture at Burswood and the re-acquisition of the hotels businesses and assets by Burswood/Crown from IHG.

Seminars that Larry has given include "Green Leasing", "Leasing Due Diligence in major property transactions" and "Explaining the new Mandatory Energy Disclosure Regime for Property Owners".
